

To Whom It May Concern,

As Ayn Rand would purport, I believe that the proper role for the federal government is to protect me as well as to protect private property. Beyond that, the federal government begins to step over the line of intruding on both group and individual freedoms.

As such, it would be far more appropriate -- in the "over-the-air" marketplace -
- for terrestrial radio broadcasters to improve upon their own services instead of attempting to get the government involved with satellite-based radio to curtail certain services.

Thanks for your time.
